Task 2. Reading

2.a. Read the text. Circle True or False.

Today is Black Friday here in the United States. No, it's not the name of a science fiction story. It's a day when there are special offers on shopping websites. More than 100 million people do online shopping on Black Friday and they spend nearly 2 billion dollars.

I'm not a fan of shopping and I hate the department stores. There are a lot of people and a lot of noise. The queues at the department stores are too long. But it's different on the Internet. You can look at different websites calmly and check prices, all from your living room. If you surf the Internet, you can find what you want quickly and it's easy to pay. People don't need to worry about cash or change – you can pay with your credit card. Your shopping usually arrives at your house the next day. I think that shopping online isn't as expensive as shopping in the department store and it's more fun!

Today I'm looking for a new top. There are lots of hoodies but not many jumpers. I want a jumper because it's autumn now and it's getting cold. I've got one jumper in my 'favourites' page but I'm waiting before I buy it. It's 20 dollars at the moment but I think I can get it for 10 dollars. Let's see ...
